IRTS Multicultural Career Workshop

Dear Friends of IRTS:

Please share the following information about the IRTS Multicultural Career Workshop with students and recent graduates of color who could benefit from this opportunity.

Whether you are an educator, executive, or a past attendee, we hope you will take a moment to pass along this information to help support the next generation of media professionals!

Now in its 30th year, the IRTS Multicultural Career
2014 Workshop

Workshop is a two-day conference that continues to be singled out by human resource professionals as one of the best places to find skilled students and recent graduates for job and internship opportunities. Attendees will learn about opportunities in digital media, creative production, advertising, research, sales and marketing, while attending a full day of panels during the Workshop’s first day. Students will then have the chance to meet with human resource professionals from major media companies during the Workshop’s career fair on day two.

Accomplished students and recent graduates from all majors (including math, computer science, business, marketing, communications, etc.) are encouraged to apply. Applicants who are selected to attend the Workshop will:

- Hear from industry executives while learning about opportunities in radio, television, research, sales, advertising, and digital media while attending a full day of panels during the Workshop’s first day.

- Meet human resource professionals from major media companies at one-one-one meetings during the Workshop’s second day.

- Hone networking skills while interacting with a broad range of industry professionals.

COST: Participants attend workshop events free-of-charge. Continental breakfast and lunch will be provided.

NOTE: Students who are accepted are required to attend both the March 6 & 7th sessions. All students will be responsible for their own travel to and from the Workshop.

ELIGIBILITY:
Requirements - Juniors, seniors, graduate students and recent graduates with outstanding academic records and extra-curricular experience are encouraged to compete for participation in the Workshop.

College Major - You need not be a communications major. IRTS seeks applicants who have demonstrated the skills necessary to succeed in a corporate environment, and/or have shown a sincere interest in communications through experience or extra-curricular activities.

Corporations have a wide range of departments and look to hire individuals from many different disciplines.
